Dear Parents

Today marks a very important day in the lives of our Year 11 pupils as they complete their final formal school lessons and begin study leave prior to the onset of GCSE examinations next Monday. Although I have only been at the school since January, it is clear to me that the staff hold this cohort in high regard and I have found them to be polite, cheerful and hard working. I hope they enjoyed the celebrations today, especially their last assembly where they were very definitely the stars of the show!

I would remind parents and pupils that information regarding extra revision sessions during the examination period was emailed home yesterday. Of course, I wish all our pupils well in their examinations and look forward to celebrating their academic achievements on results day in August.

Walking for Charity

I would like to wish good luck to Charlie in Year 7 as he embarks upon the “C2B” walk from Lake Coniston to Barrow this weekend.

Charlie is undertaking the 23 mile hike to raise funds for a charity set up by his Grandfather for children with learning difficulties and disabilities.

This is another example of the fine contribution our pupils make to their communities, both locally and nationally.

Intrepid Explorers

This weekend our intrepid D of E pupils will be undertaking their practice expedition in preparation for the qualifying expedition, which takes place next weekend. After school today the group will be heading for Dunham Massey where they will spend the evening camping before they put their map-reading skills to the test with a hike through the surrounding countryside.
